

CULTIVATING ENSEMBLES

Building Community in STEAM Education and Research

Hosted in collaboration with Saint Elizabeth University, July 24-26, 2025

Imagine a world where artists, dancers, improvisers and designers collaborate with colleagues in science, technology, engineering, mathematics (STEM) and medicine to create trans-disciplinary, inclusive groups. Together these ensembles transform STEM education and research.

This is CULTIVATING ENSEMBLES

– a unique professional development conference where innovators learn from one another's practices in communication, teamwork, creativity, academic rigor and insight. It's a gathering of people who create compelling learning environments by deeply engaging all parties across the arts, humanities and sciences.

Sponsorship and Promotional Opportunities

Cultivating Ensembles is excited to offer a number of different sponsorship opportunities for organizations and/or individuals who are passionate about growing STEM for all. Sponsorship will support scholarships that cover registration expenses of individuals to ensure diversity, equity and inclusion across the disciplines and institutional affiliations. Additional benefits include promotional opportunities through our website, social media outlets, and conference sessions.
